Your business challenges

In this ever-complex and ever-competitive market, the integrity and continuity of your business process, secured by the level of responsiveness of your business activities, will often be the lifeline (and one of the key successful factors) of your business. The real world however, is that your VIPs (managers, executives, staff in charge, etc) often stay disconnected from your business process. See typical scenarios below.

- Business process requires interactive responses and prompt actions from business managers, executives or persons in charge (collectively as VIPs)
- Such requirements may be due to regulations (financial auditing laws in US and other countries, e.g. Sarbanes-Oxley Act in US), or due to emergencies (in health care or natural disaster situations), etc
- VIPs may (and very likely) be disconnected from their regular business process or workflow, due to traveling, at a meeting, or even at home
- Result: business efficiency or responsiveness is affected, and even worse are the situations where life-or-death depends on prompt responses/actions from these VIPs

How we can help

ArcherMind can help you meet these business challenges by offering the “VIP in Action”[®] service, in order to make sure that your VIPs stay connected with business processes and workflows all of the time, no matter when it is and where they are. In the architecture picture below, we plug our wireless-for-business solution (ie, VIP in Action[®] from ArcherMind) into your business process/workflow (ie, right side) so that every VIP can be connected and act promptly (ie, left side), by leveraging cutting-edge wireless-for-business technologies and our unique experience/expertise and capabilities in wireless application design and development.
